

2nd Annual Leading Together Festival

#weareallleaders

Leading Together Festival

Building on our first Leading Together Festival (July 2022) where we welcomed over 3000 staff in care and health from across our ICS, 2022 see's us once again championing leading and learning together as a system.

The festival aims once again to encourage the workforce to reconnect to their own professional development and wellbeing. This year the festival focus is on the NHS People Promise and wears proudly the hashtag #weareallleaders.

Building a Culture of Compassion, Underpinned by Evidence #weareallleaders

Threaded throughout the festival we aim to continue the dialogue around embedding an inclusive and compassionate culture. About, civility, inclusion and wellbeing.

Encouraging our care and health workforce and volunteers to come together and share learning and ideas, builds a sense of partnership and collaboration, recognising we are all working towards common goals.

All of the evidence suggests, that collaborative, diverse, inclusive and compassionate leadership enables care and health staff and volunteers to do their best work. That supporting people to share learning brings innovation and helps developing opportunities to create effective team-based working within and across traditional organisational and sector boundaries.
